

IN DEADLY BATTLE.

28 Rustlers and 18 Deputies Said to Have Been Killed.

Alarming Reports from the Seat of Wyoming's Cattle War.

Townsmen Preparing for Defense from the Rustlers' Army.

Several newspaper representatives are here, but fear to go to the scene, as every stranger is looked on with suspicion, and the army, if they caught the reporters, would keep them close prisoners.

Great excitement exists here, and no one knows who the armed force is after now what moment they may swoop down upon this community.

The town is a walking arsenal. If the ring-leader's object is to kill off all his private enemies about one-half of the population must be on the list.

This section to a man will turn out if any miscellaneous killing takes place around here.

MANY DEAD BY FIRE IN TOKIO.

8,000 Houses Said to Have Been Burned in That City.

London, April 12.—A dispatch from Tokio says that the conflagration that broke out there on Sunday last did enormous damage.

The despatch is vague as to which portion of the city was burned over, but states that 8,000 houses were destroyed.

The loss of life was heavy. Up to the present it is known that fifty of the natives lost their lives, and a number are still missing.

Tokio, the chief city of Japan, is divided into two parts, the Ogawa, or Great River, the western portion of the city being by far the more important.

Tokio is noted for its fires. Many of the stately and rich palaces which formerly adorned the city have been burned to the ground.

In 1858 a single fire destroyed fully one-fourth of the whole city, and in one night in 1875, 8,000 houses were burned.

The whole business portion of the city is surrounded by city fireproof structures, many of which the chief valuables are hastily thrust immediately upon the breaking out of a fire in the neighborhood.

BLIND ACTRESS IN COURT.

Her Father Says She Is Infatuated with a Married Man.

She Faints While the Story of Her Woes Is Being Told.

F. M. Dunwoody, of 334 West Sixteenth street did not appear at Jefferson Market Court this morning to answer the charge of John Stevin, of 225 West Twentieth street, who accuses Dunwoody of detaining his daughter, Mrs. Emma Colby, in his house against her will.

Mrs. Colby is a pretty woman of twenty-four years, but is unfortunately blind. She has been on the stage since she was five years of age, and for many years was the eyes in several "T. Cole's" companies.

She was under A. M. Palmer's management for some time, and supported her father's family until she married Colby.

Three years ago she left her husband and went back to live with her father, who took care of her.

She said justly orally that one day last winter while he was out of town, she left the house and met Dunwoody, with whom she became infatuated. Mr. Stevin said that Dunwoody was a married man.

While the story of her woes was being told to the judge in his private room Mrs. Colby fainted. Her father's lawyer, after Justice Grady declared that he could do nothing in the matter.

The father left court alone, and Mrs. Colby went away with Dunwoody's lawyer, after Justice Grady declared that he could do nothing in the matter.

The Hoboken Police Expect to Solve the Mystery To-Day.

It is not yet clear that Adam Woods, who died in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, last Saturday evening, was murdered. The police expect to solve the mystery of his death to-day.

Woods was carried into the hospital by three unknown men Saturday afternoon. They told the sisters they did not know the injured man or anything about him and did not give their names.

Woods died soon after he was received at the hospital. County Physician Converse made an autopsy and discovered that the face of the man's skull was fractured. An inquest will be held.

Woods lived at 22 Clinton street, Hoboken. He was a longshoreman. He worked on the Wilson line dock last Saturday noon, when a train of cars was derailed. After that all trace of him is lost.

BRADY'S NEW $5,000 OFFICE.

He Will Now Be Commissioner of the Building Department.

The law establishing the new Building Department, signed by Gov. Flower yesterday, will necessitate the reorganization of the present bureau.

The head of the Department will hereafter be known as Commissioner instead of Superintendent. The present Superintendent, Thomas J. Brady, it is said, will probably be the new Commissioner.

The Department taken out of the control of the Fire Department. The Mayor is authorized by the law to appoint the Commissioner, whose salary will be $5,000 a year. The present superintendent receives $4,000.

The heads of the Bureau of Plumbing, and of the Ventilation, of the Health Department, and of the Inspection of the Family, of the Department of Public Works, all of which were part of the old Building Department, are legislated out of office, but they will doubtless be appointed to other positions.

ALL-NIGHT STREET CAR CASE.

Dry Dock Railway Company Granted a New Trial.

ALBANY, April 12.—The Court of Appeals to-day reversed the judgment of the lower court in favor of the Mayor of New York City in the suit of the city against the Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery Railroad Company, and orders a new trial.

The action was brought to recover the penalty for violation of a city ordinance requiring the running of street cars every twenty minutes between midnight and 9 o'clock a. m.

The People's Confidence

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Has been won by

Of our thousands of letters of praise from druggists we give the following from Mr. C. O. Bieglow, the enterprising prescription druggist, who has a successful business at 102 1/2 Ave. N. Y. City.

"I am, on general principles, averse to expressing my views, pro or con, in respect to any proprietary article, but in the light of Hood's Sarsaparilla being the product of a brother apothecary, will say, Hood's Sarsaparilla has secured a place in the public confidence never attained by any proprietary medicine that I have handled during an experience of more than twenty years in the drug trade."

MUST POSSESS TRUE MERIT

as a household remedy. The sale and use of Hood's Sarsaparilla exceeds that of similar preparations combined, of which I keep in stock some fifteen or twenty. Its PRaises are proclaimed daily by my counter by those who have been benefited by it, many of whom are personal acquaintances." CLARENCE O. BIGLOW, Apothecary.

KILLED BY A BLOW.

Murder in a Barroom on the Mulberry Bend.

"English Jack" Stricken Dead by Sailor Burns' Big Fist.

The Murderer in Custody, but Still Grossly Intoxicated.

Mulberry Bend added another to its long record of tragedies this morning when William Burns, a sailor, forty-five years old, in a fight with an inmate of the Bend known only as "English Jack" over some drinks in Antonio Quirino's grocery, 23 Mulberry street, fell "Jack" to the floor with a blow of his fist, from the effects of which the stricken man died instantly.

The tragedy occurred at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and although the usual large and motley crowd of "Mulberry Benders" were gathered in Quirino's place, each witness offered a different version of the affair.

Burns, who was arrested by Detectives Schellmer and Price, of the Elizabeth street station, half an hour after the affair, told this story:

"I have been drinking for some time and went into this place this morning to get some whiskey.

"This man, whom I never saw before, was in the saloon with a crowd of others. He was drinking and asked me to drink with him. I refused and he struck me in the face with his fist.

"Then he hit me back, and he fell to the floor and didn't get up. I hit only once.

Burns was staggering around when he was taken to the station-house, and it was plain that he had no clear recollection of the fight. A squad of officers was sent to Quirino's place to corral all the witnesses, and they took these men into custody: Otto Lipper, E. L. Pfueger, Louis Contano and Jim Quirino, the latter Antonio Quirino's brother and bartender in the saloon.

The witnesses told a series of stories, but all agreed that "English Jack" was the aggressor in the battle. Most of them said that when Burns struck "Jack" the latter's head struck the foot-rail which runs along the front of the bar near the floor, and that he never moved afterwards. Further, they said Burns continued to assault "Jack" after he was prostrate and unconscious on the floor.

Burns was taken before Police Justice Metcalen, sitting in special session, and he was remanded until this afternoon when he will be turned over to the custody of the Coroner. The witnesses were all held at the Elizabeth street station-house.

It is said that "English Jack" has a brother who is employed as a porter in a Bowery lodging-house. "Jack," who frequented the state beer dives of the "Bend," was ready at all times to drink when asked. His body was placed both upright in a chair in Quirino's place pending the arrival of the Coroner, and through the iron grating of the bolted doors of the saloon hundreds of denizens of the "Bend" peered morbidly at the ghastly pallid face.

They missed the reeking, bloody effects of the stiletto, which has been so often employed in the tragedies of the Bend, and their interest was only temporary.

"English Jack" was apparently not over forty years old. He was about 5 feet 7 inches high and weighed 105 pounds. He wore a brown mustache and was shabbily clad.

The real name of "English Jack" is ascertained to be John Watkins, a native of England. He lodged at 288 Broome street.

The prisoner, Burns, seemed only to realize his unfortunate position when he was taken to the Tombs. He was in a dazed and dazed condition, and he was unable to relate just what had happened.

He said he was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and was unmarried. Although a sailor, he had not climbed the ratlines for many months. He lodged at 208 Batavia street.

Burns' shirt was so stained and torn, as if he had engaged in a lively struggle, and his right eye and cheek were bruised and bloody.

Osmond had not been living with his wife for some time before the shooting and she was sitting him for divorce on the ground of cruelty and ill-treatment.

Several candidates for the vacant place in the jury-box were examined at the opening of the court, but they were none of them satisfactory until Jacob Endle, of West Fifty-second street, a young merchant, in the fur making and goods business, was called. He was accepted by the judge, although he said he had no scruples whatever against capital punishment.

In his opening speech to the jury Assistant District-Attorney Wellman said that the indictment upon which Osmond is now being tried is a bill of indictment returned by the grand jury of the city of New York, and that the name of the defendant is John Osmond.

She had witnessed the shooting. She and her sister were seated at the table and John Osmond was at the window when Osmond came in and shot her.

His first words to her as he stood near the table were:

"What young woman, how about the divorce?"

"You'll have to wait till Monday, John," his wife replied.

"Oh, I'll have to wait, will I?" he asked.

"With that, the witness said," he walked towards the door, and when he reached it he turned, pulled a revolver from his pocket and deliberately shot his wife through the back.

"Two seconds after he fired again, and the bullet struck her in the breast. Then Burchell sprang forward to stop Osmond, and he received the three remaining bullets from the revolver in his body, and fell dead.

Osmond walked out, his revolver in his pocket, walked out and closed the door after him.

Killa said she sprang to the window at the first shot and tried to get out, but could not, so she had to stay and see the whole tragedy.

The girl also told of several occasions when Osmond had assaulted his wife in her presence. Several times he blackened his wife's eyes once he had been in the room with her. One of the threats which he made against his wife on one occasion when he was drunk, was:

"I'll empty a pistol into you yet."

HARD FAST ON ROMER SHOAL. A Two-Masted Schooner Goss Aground in the Lower Bay.

It was reported from Quarantine at 10 o'clock this morning that a two-masted schooner had gone aground on Romer Shoal. It had been hard fast about an hour.

The tugboat "Vesburgh" went out and got alongside the schooner. A line was passed on board and the crew was taken off.

The life-saving crew from Sandy Hook reached the schooner at 10.15 o'clock, but there was nothing more to be done then.

Romer Shoal is in the lower bay, just inside Sandy Hook. It is marked by a red beacon. It has been a graveyard for ships.

THE CABINET-MAKERS' STRIKE. It Appears to Be Spreading to Other Branches.

No steps have been taken yet towards adjusting the difference between the striking cabinet-makers of this city and their employers. It looks now as if the strike might spread to other branches.

The cabinet-makers, of whom there are about 2,000, struck a week ago on account of their demand for $3.50 for eight hours work being refused.

They were not out work yesterday in the employ of Herter Bros., of 154 Fifth avenue, who were at work in the Hotel Savoy, at Fifty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, struck this morning and left the building.

Four plasterers and two painters employed by the same firm quit work yesterday at the Hotel Savoy, at Fifty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, struck this morning and left the building.

Four cabinet-makers were at work in a new building in Fifty-seventh street, between Fifth and sixth avenues, struck yesterday.
